REGARDING ELEPHANTS.

Why Not Have Them in Nevada?

The Chicago Inter-Ocean is authority for the statement that a Mr. Newbury of California, proposes to start an elephant farm in that State. He says that as an article of food the elephant is superior to the horse; African explorers are all profuse in the praises of elephant steak. An elephant grown weighs about 7000 pounds, and Mr. N. counts on 6,000 pounds of good meat from each elephant. He expects to supply the market with elephant meat; also to train the animals to pick oranges. He claims that one elephant would pick more oranges than ten men, never strike for higher wages or flirt with the hired girl.

This reminds us of a little incident that happened about the time Forepaugh's circus broke up in this city some years ago.

The elephant was attached, but one night when the Deputy Sheriff was asleep, the circus man whistled to the big beast and he walked right out of the stable, taking with him the whole side of the building and going off in the darkness.

The man took his pet to Empire and early in the morning came along the road back of the Holstein ranch en route for Lake View to get the elephant out of the county.

A man engaged on the ranch saw the big beast coming, and in a great state of excitement woke the writer up.

The scribe went out and at once saw what was the matter; the elephant and his keeper were making a bee line for the ranch.

"Well, what's the matter?" asked the owner of the ranch.

"Matter enough," said the hired man; "do you see that coming?"

"Yes; it's an elephant coming here to plow. Put a new point on the plow right away and get ready to go to work."

"But I never plowed with an elephant."

"Never plowed with an elephant? Great Scott! man; I thought you told me you were familiar with ranch work."

"I never plowed with elephants in California."

"I've got nothing to do with California methods of ranching. A man who ranches in Nevada has got to use elephants. Do you s'pose I'm goin' to wear my horses out plowin' up buckskin land? Go in the shed and yank that plow out and be quick about it."

The man obeyed and the elephant sauntered into the yard to a drink. The writer hurriedly explained the situation, and when the hired man again hove in sight the fellow on the elephant was ready.

"Old Jumbo's feeling a little mean today, but I guess he'll plow all right after an hour or so in harness."

"I never had no experience with elephant plowin'," said the hired man.

"This elephant's been plowing in Mason Valley all Summer and given good satisfaction."

"You kin count me out," said the man as the elephant took a couple of steps toward him. "I'm a California rancher, I am. I'll quit any job first. Guess I'll quit anyhow." And he put on his coat and struck out for town.

His month was just up, and he had survived his usefulness any how. He left for California that night, and said he was going to Oroville. A few weeks afterwards the Oroville Mercury stated that elephants had been introduced in Nevada and were being used with great success breaking up sagebrush and buckskin land.

Empire Thanksgiving Shoot.

James Wiggins, the Empire rustler has secured 250 turkeys, ducks, geese, chickens and pigeons for a grand thanksgiving shoot and has placed the fee down to the lowest rates.

Turkeys, 200 yards, 50c a shot. Geese at the same rate. Chickens at a distance of 50 yards, shotguns being used, with nothing heavier than No. 6 shot, 10 cents a shot. Birds must be knocked prostrate. Parlor rifle shooting, 50 yards, at turkey's head, 25cents per shot. The sport will be conducted on a square basis and judges will decide differences on the spot.

No one is barred from the contest and a special invitation is extended the Carson and Virginia sharpshooters.

In the evening a grand masquerade ball will be given in Wiggins' hall. Costumes can be secured in the ante-room of the hall and a line of new stables have been put up for visitors who come with horses. Mrs. Kohle, the caterer will spread a Thanksgiving turkey banquet during the dance and is located but a few steps from the pavilion. o5td

Some Fun.

Olando E. Jones, known as the Pike County Lecturer, will deliver one of his peculiar harangues in Odd Fellows' Hall on Saturday evening, commencing as soon as the audience is comfortably seated. His text for that evening will be "The Delights of Drunkenness." Reports and the newspapers say that this young man handles the subject in a manner which indicates that he has given it careful study. Seats will be free and all are cordially invited, particularly ladies, saloon men, and liquor dealers.

There is no Secret

About your buying shoes to advantage. You may not know any more about the quality of leather than you do about a lost comet but that is no reason why you should get "stuck." Either you get your money's worth or you don't and if you don't it is your own fault. We are in the shoe business because we happen to know something about shoes and leather. It is "bread and butter" to us, therefore we make it a STUDY. Of the knowledge you get as much benefit as though you possessed it yourself for we place it entirely at your disposal and if you think that other houses can quote lower prices than we do, come and look at the goods and and prices. We will put our time against yours and we feel confident that the result will be a mutual benefit.
